

Utility modules (dependencies are not shown because almost every module can depend on these modules).

Modules with Component Holder and the app module knows about this module. It contains base functionality for gluing modules.

UI-related modules know about this module. The module contains common resources, styles and may contain common widgets.

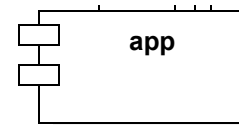

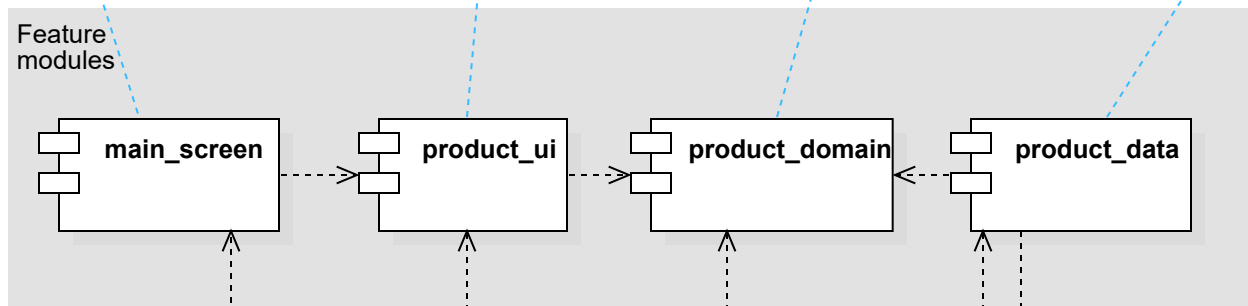

Utility module. Almost every module knows about this module. It may contain base utility functions and interfaces.

Module has main Activity and navigation functionality.

Module has product list and product details fragments.

Module responsible for product business logic. It has interactor which is used to manage products.

Module uses the application database and map the database models to domain models.

Module has the application database.

The application module. Responsible for gluing modules. Knows about every module.